Talmadge May Attempt To Seize State Control

Henchmen Ask Governor To Ignore Primary

While most of his responsible supporters were reported protesting against it, indications yesterday were that Governor Talmadge had been persuaded by a small group about him to ignore the will of the people as expressed in the recent state primary, and, by his control of party machinery attempt to take the clearcut nomination away from Ellis Arnall, the successful candidate for Governor.

A number of Talmadge's supporters who spoke freely, but asked that their names be not used, said:

"Arnall was nominated in the Democratic primary. As Democrats we must support him as the party's nominee. Any attempt to steal the nomination would plunge Georgia into chaos, bitterness and hatreds such as led to the conditions in Louisiana, culminating in the killing of Huey Long."

Governor Warned.

"We are urging the Governor not to take this step and have hope he will listen to us and not to the same group which advised him on the university affair."

Meanwhile, Ellis Arnall, who received a majority of 112 unit votes, 261 to 149, and whose popular vote majority was almost 50,000 more than the Governor's, took cognizance of the reports that ballot boxes might be seized and efforts made to confuse the people and, in the confusion, appoint hostile delegates from counties carried by Arnall and otherwise take over the convention.

Arnall Statement.

Nominee Arnall issued the following statement yesterday afternoon:

"On September 9, in the regular Democratic primary, I was nominated Governor of Georgia by a vote of 261 county unit votes to 149 for my opponent. The popular vote in the election was 174,198 for me to 127,488 for my opponent.

"According to the Sunday newspapers the opposition is reported to be launching a scheme to take away from me the nomination which has been accorded me by the people of Georgia in a fair and honest election.

"Our fight was a fight for democracy and good government. The very heart, the very soul and substance of our campaign was to turn back to the people of Georgia the government which rightfully belongs to them.

"Any efforts on the part of the opposition to thwart the will of the people and prevent the government, either by trickery, technicality, a stacked convention, or high-handed dictatorial methods, will receive condemnation from all decent Georgians, irrespective of whether they voted for me or my opponent.

"I am calling upon the friends of democratic government in Georgia to see to it that the ballot boxes in the county remain in the custody of the clerks of the superior court as provided by law. I am urging my supporters in those counties where a majority of the votes were cast for me to see to it that my loyal friends and supporters are named as delegates to the state Democratic convention at Macon.

"This battle had almost a hundred guns, better than our ship. There was a terrific amount of antiaircraft fire coming up at us as we approached. It was being thrown up by the battleship and the rest of the convoy; most of it was just below us.

"We were flying at 22,000 feet but these Flying Fortresses are built for the job.

"We were almost straight in front of the target. Fifteen seconds before I released the bombs I knew I was going to hit the ship... I saw them hit. What a hit.

Bombardier Relates Kelly's Heroic Feat

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(P)—The sinking of the Japanese battleship Haruna off the Philippines last December was a "bombardier's dream," Sergeant Meyer Levin, bombardier on the Flying Fortress piloted by Captain Colin P. Kelly, said today in a broadcast description of the action.

Navy Selects G. S. C. W. To Train WAVES

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Sept. 13.—Georgia State College for Women was named one of four colleges in America to participate in the naval training program for the recently organized WAVES by the Navy Department. The announcement was made by Dr. Guy H. Wells, president of the local college, after being notified Sunday of the Navy's selection by Congressman Carl Vinson.

Approximately 500 girls will receive four months' training in order to release Navy personnel from shore duty to active sea duty. Coming in shifts of 500, the program will be a year round activity at the local college.

The first contingent of WAVES will arrive to begin their training programs as soon as the college facilities can be placed in readiness. Besides drilling and other routine activities similar to that of Navy men, the girls will receive secretarial training.

Other colleges selected by the bureau of Navy personnel to carry on the WAVES training programs include Smith College, University of Wisconsin and University of Indiana, this making G. S. C. W. the first southern college named.

The announcement by Dr. Wells came after he and personnel of the college had been working for the last month with naval inspectors to arrange the facilities of the college so that they might be shared with the WAVES.

Red 'Commandos' Smash At Germans in Far North

New Nazi Craft Bomb Britain At 40,000 Feet

LONDON, Sept. 13.—(P)—German submersible bombers, equipped with supercharged diesel motors, have made several daylight attacks on Great Britain recently, it was disclosed today.

The first such bombings of Britain were made from altitudes of nearly 40,000 feet by modified Junkers 86-P's fitted with experimental pressure cabins.

This type of plane is the third new weapon in the German air arsenal for daylight forays against strongly defended British ports and cities.

The others are the four-motored Heinkel 177 which carries eight tons of bombs—equalling the capacity of Britain's biggest machines, and the bomb-carrying Focke-Wulf 190's, the special function of which is to speed over coastal targets at low altitudes and get away fast before the speedy British Spitfires can reach them. The FW-190's are primarily fighters.

"It was what you might call a bombardier's dream," he said. "We are on the way searching for a Japanese aircraft carrier. I am searching for two hours but found no trace of it. However, in the JP convoyer was a battleship protecting landing operations and we made this our target.

Sergeant Levin, of Brooklyn, already holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross, has just been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry.

In a broadcast here by CBS, Levin told for the first time just what went on inside Captain Kelly's bomber during this now historic attack on the big Jap warship.

"It was what you might call a bombardier's dream," he said. "We are on the way searching for a Japanese aircraft carrier. I am searching for two hours but found no trace of it. However, in the JP convoyer was a battleship protecting landing operations and we made this our target.

Forced Labor Law Ordered by Petain

VICHY, Sept. 13.—(P)—The Petain government established today the principle of forced labor and total dictatorship over employment in one of the most radical laws in French history.

Every Frenchman between the ages of 18 and 50 and every unmarried French woman between 21 and 35 are subject to be called up "to effect all labors which the government will judge useful in the higher interests of the nation."

The law provided no limitation on where they could be sent—although all ways and means of its application are not yet published. It may be applied also to foreigners who reside in France.

Every Frenchman—and probably every male foreigner—subject to the compulsory labor law must prove to the government that he is engaged in work "useful to the country's needs" or be liable to assignment to other work.

Every employer is forbidden to hire any workers unless they are provided him by the government labor service and with government authorization which is needed for firing or quitting.

The law contained a clause to the effect that "every head of an enterprise will be obliged to conform to the instructions which he may receive from competent secretaries of state, notably for constituting crews of workmen."

Heavy Penalties Provided.

Infractions of the law will be punishable with sentences up to five years' imprisonment and a 30,000 gold franc fine, which will be doubled in the case of second offenders.

An advance tip on the law was given the press Friday in an off-the-record statement.

Pierre Laval, chief of government, was originator of the policy he announced for "concentrating" industry in fewer plants

He asserted that the Allies must destroy the German air force and added, "we do that which must bring the enemy air force to battle. Sweeps do not do this but combined operation can and does, as the Dieppe raid showed."

RAF Hits Confirmed.

Meanwhile, daylight reconnaissance photographs of Duesseldorf and Karlsruhe substantiated today original RAF reports of widespread damage in the latest raids on those German-Rhineland cities, it was authoritatively announced. Duesseldorf was raided last Thursday night and Karlsruhe the night before.

"On the day after the attack on Duesseldorf the greatest part of the town was covered by dense smoke and another reconnaissance had to be done," it was said. "The damage at both places is still being assessed and details will be issued later."

Cards Take Lead As Dodgers Lose

St. Louis' Cardinals climaxed a drive for the National League pennant yesterday by taking over first place from the faltering Brooklyn Dodgers by the margin of one game as the former leaders lost two games to Cincinnati, 6-3 and 4-1.

St. Louis split a double bill with the Phillies, losing the first game, 2 to 1, on a ninth-inning rally, and captured the second, 3 to 2, mainly through Terry Moore's homer in the fifth inning.

German Withdrawal From Area in Deep Caucasus Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

MOSCOW, Monday, Sept. 14.—The Russian high command said today that reinforced German troops had made a further advance southwest of beleaguered Stalingrad, the second German gain announced in this sector in 24 hours.

Using almost the same words as in last night's communiqué, the midnight bulletin said the Germans had "occupied a populated place" to the southwest of the Volga city. The new communiqué said, however, the Russians were now holding firm west of Stalingrad where during the day a German advance had been acknowledged.

(The German high command said that German troops had penetrated the southern part of Stalingrad.)

Front Reserves Arrive.
The Russians said the Germans had brought up fresh reserves and were attacking continuously in the southwestern sector. The Red army withdrew, the communiqué said, only after it had annihilated a battalion of enemy infantry and disabled about 40 enemy tanks and destroyed 24 motor vehicles carrying troops.

"West of Stalingrad stubborn fighting took place," the communiqué said. "The Germans launched a number of attacks, which were repelled. On one sector six German tanks were destroyed."

The Russians also reported that

11 Heavy Guns, Supply Dumps Are Destroyed

MOSCOW, Sept. 13.—(P)—A Commando-style, seaborne assault behind the enemy's far northern line was reported today from the Barents sea by the navy newspaper Red Fleet, which credited Russian marines with destroying 11 heavy guns, several mortars, two ammunition dumps and one food depot.

Suggesting that the Barents coastal operation was more than a minor hit-and-run attack, Red Fleet said that the assault was continuing. Admiral Nikolai Kuznetsov, Russian navy commissar, messaged congratulations to the units sent.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Moscow to London said that the attackers also were credited with capture of 200 prisoners as well as enemy trenches.

Nazi Positions.
The army newspaper Red Star reported that in three weeks these lone wolves of the sky have destroyed 51 German planes and have caused great confusion among enemy tank formations.

Advance Unstoppable.
Russian resistance increased in stubbornness as the Germans inch forward. But it was actually progress toward the Volga had not been halted and it remained to be seen whether the fresh Russian forces now in action could overcome the added pressure being exerted by the new German reserves now doing their utmost to storm every approach to the metropolis.

To the west of the city, where another community had fallen to the Germans, another great tank battle was raging. Into this action the Russians had thrown more than a hundred machines, and the newspaper Izvestia said German tank forces retired after the initial collision.

The fields were strewn with wrecked German tanks, Izvestia added, and it was estimated that Russian tank crews had killed 600 of the enemy by gunfire and by crushing them under the caterpillar tracks of their machines.

In the Stalingrad region the Russians worried the Germans with a quick succession of small-scale actions. Counterattack was an essential part of their defense strategy. The Axis forces were able to neglect no sector, and no part of the front could be counted on to remain inactive any length of time.

Red Artillery Effective.
Another feature of the savage fighting was the extraordinary strength of Russian artillery. West of Stalingrad, Red Star reported, Russian artillery repulsed four assaults by infantry and tanks. Two companies of enemy infantry had penetrated into northern Norway.

Growing Emphasis.
German reports of late have laid increasing emphasis on air action against the Russian far northern positions, which are anchored on Murmansk on Kola bay, a port of entry for supplies from the United Nations.

DNB, official German news agency, quoted the high command Sunday as saying that Russian air base east of Kola bay was heavily attacked last night.

This might have had a direct connection with the reported Commando action, since an operation of the suggested scope of the

Two U. S. Bombers Shoot Down Seven of 15 Jap Fighter Planes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP) The impressive account of a Flying Fortress and another Army bomber shooting down seven of a swarm of 15 Japanese fighter planes which sought to thwart them from their target was related today by the War Department.

The feat, further evidence of the defensive power which these aircraft have been displaying on the fighting fronts, occurred last January in the Netherlands Indies but was disclosed only with an announcement of the award of a Distinguished Flying Cross to the pilot of the Flying Fortress, Lieutenant Colonel Conrad F. Necrason, of Cooperstown, N. Y., for his "coolness and courage."

Necrason accompanied another bomber, its type not specified, in an attack on Japanese ships off the Island of Celebes, sinking a transport.

"While still over the target," the announcement related, "the two bombers were attacked by 15 enemy fighters, seven of which were shot down. The two bombers then proceeded to a refueling base."

But Necrason had two more brushes with the foe that day.

"Lieutenant Colonel Necrason had just finished servicing his ship," the account continued, "when five enemy aircraft began strafing their field. He took off in the face of the attack and when he returned later to see if he could be of assistance to his comrades, found the other bomber had been destroyed before it could be refueled."

"He then returned safely to his base in Java despite a subsequent attack by enemy fighters."

Another bomber feat, in which Japanese shipping was successfully railed off the Philippines last December "in the face of intense enemy fighter plane activity," won an oak leaf cluster, the equivalent of a second Distinguished Flying Cross, for Major Guidford R. Montgomery, of Olrichs, S. D.

"He took off first during an air raid alarm at Clark Field without his co-pilot," the announcement recounted, "bombed his designated target and returned for more fuel and bombs. He then successfully completed another mission. He was the only one needed 12 hours during that one day."

Announcement also was made of awards to 11 other Army fliers who fought against overwhelming odds in the southwest Pacific, including Major General Lewis H. Brereton, of San Antonio, Texas, now American air commander in Egypt.

One of these, First Lieutenant Robert Taylor Hanson, of Oakland, Cal., was killed in the Philippines two days after the action for which he was decorated.

Brereton was awarded the silver star along with eight other officers and men for a low-altitude bombing raid against Japanese warships at Port Blair, Andaman Islands, in the Indian Ocean last April.

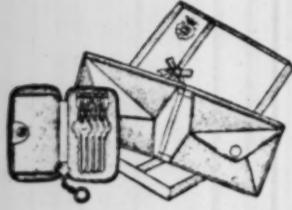

The others cited for this raid were Colonel Cecil E. Combs, of Dallas, Texas; Captains Paul J. Long, of Patton, Pa., and Delmar J. Rogers, of Munger, Mich.; First Lieutenant Bruno C. Delmesser, of Seattle, Wash.; Second Lieutenants Milton J. Svododa, of Portland, Ore.; Nelson P. Davis, of Tampa, Fla., and Raymond P. Giannini, of Cloverdale, Cal., and Staff Sergeant Ernest E. Lindley, of Huntington, Ind.

U-Boat Attacks Ships Moored In West Indies

25-Minute Barbados Assault Made Under Shore Fire.

By The Associated Press.

The Battle of the Atlantic, apparently entering a new phase with Saturday's Axis submarine attack upon vessels moored in Carlisle bay, Barbados, claimed eight more Allied merchantmen in official announcements last week.

Reports from Bridgetown on the first attack of the war on the British West Indies island revealed that the raider remained in the bay 25 minutes and fired five torpedoes while under fire from shore batteries.

No mention was made of damage in a statement issued by the information officer on the island. It was said there were no casualties.

Meanwhile, although reports from an east coast Canadian air base last week indicated that more enemy submarines had been destroyed by bombers off Canada's east coast during summer operations than Allied surface craft sunk there by U-boats, Royal Canadian Naval Headquarters had a warning for "false optimism" in connection with the submarine menace.

Admitting that shipping losses in the war at sea had lessened during the summer months, the Canadians declared that the Battle of the Atlantic was "of far greater scope than ever before experienced."

Other developments during the week included the announcement of Mexico's sixth ship loss of the war—the 6,511-ton Amatlan; the first sinking of a Polish vessel in western Atlantic waters—that country's 17th loss since 1939; and the reported imprisonment aboard enemy undersigned raiders of three more ship captains whose vessels were torpedoed to the bottom. Seven other key mariners recently have been taken prisoner aboard attacking U-boats.

Attacks on Allied merchantmen announced since September 6 included two American vessels, two British, one Mexican, one Polish, one Norwegian and one Dutch.

Pir of Pagara in Pitiful Plight; Palace Blown Clear Out of Sight

KARACHI, India, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The desert stronghold of the Hurs, freebooters of Sind province, has been razed and their leader, Pir of Pagara, has been taken into custody by the British in a government drive to stamp out the organization.

Pir's fortress palace at Pirjogoth, surrounded by walls 60 feet high and 12 feet thick, including his residential palaces, harems and luxurious baths, have been blown up.

The ruins are in charge of a mullah appointed by the government of India.

The town's population was evacuated before the demolition began. The mosque and other religious structures were left standing.

The Hurs have been terrorizing Sind province by attacks on trains and villages. Martial law was declared in June. Since then 66 Hurs have been hanged.

Brazilians Know City From GWTW

Brazilians like to eat, but they like to feed themselves.

That fact was demonstrated last night in a Luckie street restaurant when a pretty blonde waitress took it upon herself to feed lemon pie to Lieutenant Virto Diduylez, a member of the Brazilian Army Air Force, while he and six of his companions were dining in a Luckie street restaurant.

"Your city is wonderful," Lieutenant Jorge Marques de Azevedo, spokesman for the seven pilots, said. "We know all about it, we have read 'Gone With the Wind.' Me, I read it two times."

Just then Lieutenant Diduylez, who had been sitting quietly, eating his dinner, interrupted with a scream. Looking up, his companions and dozens of other diners in the restaurant discovered the pretty waitress feeding lemon pie to the lieutenant.

"It's better than what you can get in Rio," the waitress said as she scooped up another spoonful and held it up to Lieutenant Diduylez's mouth.

"Plenty, plenty," the lemon pie eater exclaimed reaching deep into his English vocabulary.

The seven officers were en route back to Brazil after visiting an American airplane factory.

Others in the party were Lieutenants Ormuz Cunha Lima, Carlos Alberto M. Alvarez, Julio Vasconcelos, Mario de Lucena and Eudo Candita Da Silva.

Germans To Release Uruguayan Ship Captain

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Captain Mario Giambro, master of the Uruguayan merchantman Maldonado, who was taken aboard the German submarine which sank her last August 1, has arrived safely in Berlin and soon will return to Uruguay, his brother, Cyro Giambro, minister of public education, announced today.

The captain was the only missing member of the crew of the Maldonado. All others arrived safely in the United States after many days in lifeboats and now are en route to Uruguay.

After the sinking Uruguay protested strongly to Germany through Swiss diplomatic channels against the action of especially the capture of the captain by the submarine. Uruguay does not maintain diplomatic relations with Germany.

Bills To Stabilize Living Costs Due in House, Senate Today

By FRANCIS J. KELLY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP)—New cost of living control legislation to be introduced in congress tomorrow will establish "guideposts" for industrial wages as well as farm prices, Senate Majority Leader Barkley announced after a parley with house members late today.

"It will give the President all the power he needs to deal with farm products and labor," Barkley said. "It will authorize him to bring about a general stabilization of the price of farm products and of wages."

Strategy Conference.

Four senators and four house members attended the unusual Sunday strategy conference in the senate office building. Conference included Barkley, Chairman Wagner of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee; Senator Brown, Democrat, Michigan; Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, a leader of the powerful senate farm block; Chairman Steagall, Democrat, Alabama, of the House Banking and Currency Committee, and Representatives Spence, Democrat, Kentucky; Palmer, Democrat, Texas, and Thomas F. Ford, Democrat, California.

Barkley, spokesman for the lawmakers, expressed confidence that the projected measure would be on the books by October 1, the President's deadline for action.

Immediate Action.

Wagner and Brown planned to introduce the bill in the senate tomorrow and Steagall said every effort would be made to have a measure ready for the house hopper at the same time. Whether identical bills would be introduced was undetermined tonight.

"There is no disagreement among us as to the scope of the legislation, however," Barkley added.

Wagner said the senate committee would open hearings Tuesday with Price Administrator Leon Henderson as the first witness. He will be followed by William H. Davis, chairman of the National War Labor Board, and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard. Representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange and the National Farmers' Union will be heard Wednesday.

Brief Hearings.

Barkley said he hoped the hearings could be finished in not more than three days and that the bill could be reported out for senate action a week from tomorrow. He said Steagall believed the house could pass the measure by September 24.

Neither house nor senate conferees would divulge details of the bill prior to its introduction. Barkley cautioned newsmen, however, against reference to the labor provisions as "freezing," declaring that was a misnomer. The general idea is stabilization of all items entering into the cost of living.

Bombers Blast Jap Shipping In New Guinea

Merchant Vessel Sunk, Cruiser Hit in New Attacks.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Monday, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Allied bombers again dealt smashing blows at Japanese bases in New Guinea and on shipping west of this battle area yesterday, sinking at least one merchant vessel and bombing an enemy cruiser and two other merchantmen with unknown results, communiqué said.

The New Guinea invasion bases at Lae and Salamaua were targets for the main attacks. Seventeen tons of bombs were dropped on installations and in the dispersal areas around the Lae airfield, destroying two bombers on the ground.

Ground action in the Owen Stanley mountain range, where the Japanese have been halted about 40 miles north of the Allied base at Port Moresby, was confined to patrol activity, the communiqué said.

On the eastern side of New Guinea, Allied heavy bombers attacked an enemy cruiser with unknown results, off New Britain. The vessel put up a fierce anti-aircraft barrage, but all our planes returned to their bases.

MacArthur's Communiqué:

The communiqué said: "Northwestern Sector: Tenimber Islands: Allied medium bombers attacked two enemy cargo vessels off Seloe Island, scoring a direct hit on one vessel. The stern of this ship was blown off and she was left in a sinking condition. The other vessel was raked with machine gun fire.

In the K. I. Islands just to the north of the Tenimber group an Allied reconnaissance plane bombed another Japanese cargo vessel, but the results could not be observed.

First Women Hired At Brooklyn Yard

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The Navy has hired women to work as mechanics in the Brooklyn navy yard for the first time in the yard's 141-year history.

About 200 of 3,000 qualified as eligible by the U. S. Civil Service Commission have been called for work in the shipfitters' shop, the ordnance and paint shops and the foundry.

The Navy said the average age of the new workers was 28 and that many were women whose husbands are now in the armed forces.

Pukiang Occupied By Chinese Army

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 13.—(AP)—The occupation of the Chekiang province town of Pukiang, 30 miles northeast of the provincial capital of Kinhwa, was reported today in Chinese dispatches from the front while the Chinese siege of Kinhwa continued without a let-up.

The Central News Agency said that fighting now was in progress northeast of Pukiang.

Meanwhile, the town of Kufang, six miles west of Kinhwa, again changed hands, falling once more to the Chinese.

A brief high command communiqué reported minor action in Kwangtung province. It said the Chinese on September 1 attacked the Japanese at Tating and Newkung, in the vicinity of Chaoan, which is 25 miles north of the port of Swatow, and killed a number of them.

ATLANTA, GA., SEPTEMBER 14, 1942.

An Old Complaint

Adolf Schickelgruber has found something else about which to complain. That erstwhile paperhanger is constantly having to voice bitter disgust because of the failure of peoples other than Nazified Germany to act according to the plan he has set for them.

His latest trouble, according to Berlin reports, results from the stupidity of the Russians. He complains that he has beaten the Soviet armies time and again, but the dumkopf so-and-so don't know it!

That must account for those Goebbel pronouncements of a year ago when, according to him, the Russians were so badly whipped they were out of the war, Russian surrender would shortly follow and another conquest could be chalked up for the little Fuehrer with the mustache.

Now, a year or more later, the Russians have been beaten, says Hitler, repeatedly. He knows it. His generals know it. All who have faith in the Nazi propaganda machine—if such gullibles there be—know it. But the Russians themselves don't know it! What can you do with people like that?

It is not so long ago when Hitler was making the same complaint about the British. He had beaten them, too, but the British, likewise a stupid race from the Hitler point of view, didn't know it, either.

It was Marshal Ney, one of Napoleon's greatest generals, who made similar complaint when fighting the British in the War of the Peninsular, more than a century and a quarter ago. He, too, had beaten them in battle after battle but they failed, in those days, too, to recognize or admit defeat.

No power, no matter how great, can, in the final outcome, crush any peoples who refuse to acknowledge defeat. Fighting that kind of folks is merely butting the head against a stone wall, wasting your own strength until it has faded entirely away.

Make a note of that eternal truth, Herr Schickelgruber.

Not Forgotten

Critics of "big business" might do well to study results of a recent survey conducted by the National Association of Manufacturers on the subject of company relations with employees in military service. They would learn that industry is not forgetting its men who left the factories, the forges and the foundries to serve in the armed forces.

The survey was conducted among a representative cross-section of industry and replies indicated a growing desire on the part of employers to make the boys at the front feel they have not been forgotten as soon as their places are filled. Many companies mail service men regular copies of the plant publications. Other firms send gift packages. Others send greeting cards, special publications concerning the company's role in the war effort, and financial reports. Many personal letters are written to the men by the president and other executives of the companies.

These are but a few of the ways in which industry is keeping in touch with its employees at war. It is the sort of co-operative and American thing that belies assertions by our enemies that we are not a united people. It is, in essence, the sort of thing which makes us free—and will keep us free.

"Two Germanys" Is Myth

In lashing out against what he termed "the myth of the two Germanys," the head of Britain's Trades Union Congress has made a significant contribution to the war effort. A straight-speaking Lancashireman, and holder of one of the key labor posts in Britain, Frank Wollencroft's words should help to clarify the thinking of many persons. This is particularly true of those individuals who are inclined to a belief that Hitler's rise to power came about only through the co-operation of wealthy industrialists and the Prussian military-minded.

Wollencroft bluntly told an audience at the annual trades union conference the war is being fought against the German people and not against the Nazi leaders. His blistering attack on sentimentalism toward Germany is especially noteworthy coming from a man who is an influential leader of the British labor movement which in the past has supported and made excuses for Germany's Nazi regime. His words are thought-provoking because they contain truth.

None can fail to recognize the truth, for instance, in his words: "I am one of those who feel bound to recognize that the vast majority of German people—all that mattered—were behind the Nazi gangsters when they gave effect to their policy of attempting the conquest and domination of Europe." Further, "I am convinced the German people, if not prevented, at some distant date will again attempt to enslave Europe."

That is straight talking, and straight thinking. The Nazis' rise to power could not have been possible without the co-operation of millions of persons in Germany. That the Nazis received this co-operation becomes more and more apparent.

The "myth of the two Germanys"—one hateful and the other not hateful—must be destroyed.

If Dollars Were Enough

$1,000 a crate for carrots.

In New York recently that was just the American way of pledging aid to our soldiers who fought on Bataan and Corregidor. The crates ordinarily would have sold for $4.50.

Back of the whole transaction was a sincere feeling that Americans are aware of what went on at those two distant outposts. Firstly, the carrots were donated for the auction by growers. Secondly, the bidders, after paying such a high price, gave the carrots back so that they might again be sold at the normal price.

How can a nation with a spirit such as that go wrong? It shows just a little bit of what some of us are willing to do to safeguard our liberties. It shows just a little bit of what a nation struggling to ward off heathenish Hitlerites and Hirohitos will do in the way of sacrifice.

When Americans are willing to spend their life's earnings to bid in a mere case of carrots for $1,000, there can't be anything but ultimate victory in sight. If dollars can buy victory.

Georgia Editors Say:

THE FARMERS AND PRICE FIXING.

(From the Moultrie Observer.)

Such inflation as we have had to date has been beneficial rather than hurtful to the south. One of the things we have needed most has been inflation. Our greatest handicap has been deflation. Things have been selling below their value. Farmers products have too often been sold at less than cost of production. At the present time they may be just about right. The Observer learns that cotton growers have been paying as high as $1.50 per hundred for picking cotton. This is bad for the grower, but is fine for the cotton picker. The grower we hope is compensated when he sells his cotton seed for close to $50 a ton. The increased price of his cotton seed, not to mention the increased price of his lint cotton, will take care of the extra cost in having the cotton picked. Both the farmer and the cotton picker are helped but this is not all. The merchant, the real estate man, the doctor, lawyer and mechanic, the schools and hospitals and everyone comes in for a share of benefit. It means more money in circulation and this means more business and more prosperity. President Roosevelt wants things frozen where they are. We are willing now. We think we are pretty well heeded. The President would hold prices of farm products down to parity. That is all right, too. The farmer has been asking for parity for ten years and we suppose that he is still in favor of it. Let him get what others get and he will be satisfied.

President Roosevelt reported the talk about parities. He and Vice-President Wallace. It is safe to follow their counsel. The President, in his speech the other night, made it clear that he was not thinking in terms of partial prices for the duration of the war only. He gave government supported parity prices for farm products after the war. That is important. We hope the farmers were all listening. After war prices are something for farmers to be thinking about. It is more important than parity plus

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

NEW SECRET WEAPON WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The United States has developed a secret weapon which is said to be capable of ending the war within six months if half the claims made for it are true.

Naturally it is the War Department's greatest military secret and very little has been said about it. About the only thing that can be revealed is that it is a new type of bomb with more powerful incendiary qualities than anything heretofore discovered.

A few plane loads of these new bombs are said to be capable of wreaking utter destruction on a great city. Those who have witnessed Army experiments with them so far say they are the most devastating war weapons the human mind has yet conceived. Had General Doolittle been supplied with them on his bombing raid against Japan, the city of Tokyo, it is said, might have been completely destroyed.

Already perfect, the new bombs are scheduled to reach the war production stage early in the coming year. It should not be long after that before they are introduced in the European battle zone—perhaps simultaneously in Japan.

MAY END WAR If they perform in actual war use as they have experimentally, it is inconceivable that the Germans will be able to continue the conflict more than a few months after we and the British employ them in wholesale attacks. They are said to open the way for the complete leveling of all German industrial and war production centers with a minimum use of bombers. Without these sources of production the Axis machine would collapse.

Army heads are reported to be highly elated over the experimental results obtained thus far and are pressing plans for mass production of the new bombs. It all really sounds too good to be true, because it promises an end to the war much earlier than the most optimistic calculations have predicted in the past.

Hitler, whose claims of having developed new secret weapons terrified the world at the time of the fall of France, has really produced nothing to justify the claims. He will get his first conception of the true meaning of the term when the new American bomb is let loose on his cities. The few people who are in on the secret say it is absolutely the point of everything yet invented.

WAR OF BRAINS When the history of this war is finally written it will probably be shown that the scientists had as much to do with winning it as the military strategists. It is a war of brains no less than brawn.

It is a sad commentary on the human race that a few months of war should do more than many years of peace for the advancement of the sciences, but that is precisely what happened. We have the word of Dr. Charles M. A. Stine, a vice-president of the Dupont company and its advisor on research development, that the war has accomplished just that.

Chemical progress, such as that which has developed the deadly new incendiary bomb, has been so rapid, he said, that "the world of 1940 has already become an antiquity; the inconceivables of only two years ago are today's realities."

MAGNESIUM MIRACLE In a recent speech before the American Chemical Society at Buffalo, Dr. Stine traced some of these realities. By the end of next year aluminum production will be seven times as great as it was in 1938 after a half-century of development. Magnesium, the lightest of all metals which was largely a curiosity a few years ago, is now being taken from the sea through chemical processes in sufficient quantities for a half-ton of it to go into every fighting plane we make.

Advancements made by the petroleum chemists in better fuel for airplanes have already made the present-day automobile out of date. After the war when production of automobiles is resumed, the new models will be at least two decades advanced over those we now have. Weights will be half what they are now, cooling systems will be sealed, as they are in airplanes, and power will be increased through new fuels yielding 50 miles to the gallon.

Also says Dr. Stine, we will have glass that won't break, glass that will float, wood that won't burn, and laminations of plastics and wood that will compete with structural metals for building purposes.

WILL PRODUCE TO BUILD "Today we produce to destroy," the noted scientist said. "But tomorrow we will produce to build, and we will continue to invent and thus to multiply our possessions. We will have at our command 10, 50, 100 times what we had before, chiefly of new materials.

"Our prospect is as certain as tomorrow's dawn. We need only to make the victory definite. Then the choice will be ours, either to either to harness the stream of plenty or, if we are timid and of restricted vision, to be embarrassed by the very abundance of the means we have created."

President Roosevelt has set up a body of some 100 of these eminent scientists to collaborate with our military heads in devising new instruments for waging the war. They are working quietly and the fruits of their labors will not be entirely known until the war is over.

Whether they perfected the new secret bomb we have developed is immaterial. The chances are it was done under their supervision.

This Thing

Inflation.

The cause and effect of this called inflation has been explained so many times it seems scarcely necessary to go over it all again. However, just in case some one or two who have read these lines do not understand it, here goes once more.

Inflation, briefly, comes about when there are too many dollars in folks' pockets ready to be spent and there are not sufficient goods to supply all those folks' needs.

Now the value of a dollar is nothing at all, unless it can be used to buy things with. Except for that purchasing value, it is just a scrap of paper, worth no more than any other scrap of paper.

But cost of goods, as measured in dollars, has doubled, as explained above. Mr. A., the farmer, is getting $20 in paper dollars where he only got $10 before.

But inasmuch as his new $20 will only buy the same amount of goods the $10 bought before he is not one whit better off.

And money has shrunk to half its former value.

Which means that taxes have to be doubled, that the cost of fighting the war is doubled. The country is flooded with cheap money.

That is not the worst of it. For the cheapening of the money does not stop at the halfway point. The vicious spiral, once started, can't be stopped. Dollars continue to shrink in value as purchasing units. Pretty soon a dollar is worth only 25 cents, compared with normal times. Then only a dime. And less and less until the things they call dollars are really only cents and then they shrink down to one-tenth of a cent and less, per dollar.

That's what happened in some European countries after the last war. You remember it took a wheelbarrow load of German marks to buy a loaf of bread, in that country.

And that is what will, inevitably, happen in this country unless congress or the President puts a stop to increases in wages and hold prices of farm products so they can't go above present levels.

Why, it costs more to make the things that factory produces, things which Mr. A., the farmer, has to buy. So the factory has to raise the selling price of its product. So the cost of living goes up for Mr. A., the farmer. And he is not one penny better off than he was before he raised the price of the foodstuffs he grows.

Then Mr. A. turns right around and adds another 10 per cent to the price he asks for his stuff. Mr. B. has to pay it or go without. So Mr. B. discovers his raise in pay scales has done him no good. So he demands, and gets, another pay raise to meet the new hike in the cost of living.

And so it keeps on.

Pretty soon food is costing twice what it did at the

Fresh Ideas

It is seldom this columnist indulges in eavesdropping but how is one to avoid overhearing things without using earplugs?

This remark drifted to my ears from the bank of a little lake in the twilight. It was a feminine voice:

"Wait a minute, big boy! Trouble with you is you've got too many fresh ideas."

Trudging homeward up the hill—it's uphill all ways in my neighborhood—I pondered over that.

Here, I thought, is a young man overflowing with fresh ideas. He probably works for a boss who won't listen to them and he is about to be called into his country's service where fresh ideas are about as welcome as a wet dog at a bridge party.

And here am I, earnestly seeking fresh ideas and rarely finding them. Not even in the syndicated columns of the big shots.

Perhaps, if I were 21 again and had a girl and the twilight brought a lake I might find inspiration and fresh ideas. But there doesn't seem to be any way to work that out.

It had long been my ambition to accumulate a small fortune, retire from active service and build or buy a modest cottage on St. Simon's Island, one of my favorite vacation spots.

But I'm afraid I must devote next morning, upon complaints made furniture polish, so I assume a post mortem would have revealed I had acquired an interior patina like an antique mahogany hibby. But I suffered no ill effects. I arose early and consumed my usual hearty breakfast—a cup of coffee and Moon Mullins.

Perusing the papers which waited for the final scores, I am pleased to find the editors held no bitterness in their hearts. The candidate around whom most interest had centered had shed his horns and tail and become an object of kindly sympathy. Old Gene, I inferred, had a few good points.

But I'm afraid I must devote

a few more years to building up

sold fortune—and it's time I got started—because the Atlantic resorts are not such havens of quiet bliss these days. There's a war on.

For many months lights shined toward the sea have been banned. More recently strollers on the beach were ordered to go home or some other place.

And now the military orders forbids fishing from the Brunswick-St. Simons bridges, on the causeway. If a fellow can't go out and catch him a mess of fish or a basketful of crabs, what's the use of living beside the sea?

But the sea and the rivers and the inlets and the creeks will be there when Hitler has been licked. And maybe I will. I hope so.

Such Ignorance

Every now and then, deep in the heart of an easy chair, I listen to a radio quiz session and am amazed by the abysmal ignorance of the men and women who fall down hard on questions any child could answer—because I can.

But, after reflection, I realize that I wasn't standing before a mike. Mike right, I am told, is about twice as tough as stage right.

After my boasting that I could have answered every question in a recent quiz with one arm tied behind me and a black silk handkerchief bound over my eyes, a couple of feminine members of my family, with malice aforethought, looked up half a dozen easy ones and wished them on me. My report card read 86 2-3. I made that high average because

The work comes under the supervision of the National Committee for the Conservation of Manpower Within Industry.

The work will be in the line of more safety workers called upon to help in accident-prevention work. It is hoped in the LeTourneau plant to accomplish an increasing majority of "accidentless days" and days of absence from work from slight illness.

Wasting Tires Can Lose War, Henderson Warns Motorists

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(P) Price Administrator Leon Henderson told motorists today that the tires on their cars constituted a bigger stockpile of rubber than the government's and that wasting it could lose the war.

He estimated that 1,000,000 tire miles were wasted in unnecessary driving every day throughout the country, enough rubber to recap 200,000 tires, and declared, "that is waste that can lick us in the kind of fight we're in unless we cut out that waste right now."

Henderson urged, in an address prepared for the radio, that motorists throughout the country apply to themselves voluntarily the gasoline rationing restrictions already imposed on the east without waiting for the rationing machinery to be set up several weeks hence. His radio appeal was similar to that he issued in a statement last night.

Henderson said that before the war the country was using 600,000 tons of rubber annually for all purposes, most of which went into tires, and that now military requirements alone demand 574,000 tons. Therefore, he continued, some 1,000,000 tons of rubber in the tires on the road must be conserved to provide essential transportation.

"Too many of us," he said, "have been saying too long: 'Oh, I've got another 5,000 or 7,000 miles in my tires. The way I drive that'll last until we get synthetic tires.'

Double features are particularly popular with moviegoers in the low income groups and in the younger age groups, particularly under 18.

However, even those double features enthusiasts indicate a willingness to give up double bills if it will help conserve supplies for war.

The Trend.

Since the Institute's last report on double features in August 1940, there has been a trend of sentiment in favor of double bills.

At that time the Institute found that 57 per cent preferred single features, while 43 per cent preferred double features. Today, the percentages are 52 per cent in favor of single features, 48 per cent in favor of double features.

One explanation for the trend is probably that there is more money today in the hands of the poor people to use for movie-going and they are the class most in favor of double features.

Whereas in past years those who did not have the money to go to the movies were largely indifferent to the question of double versus single features, today these people are going more regularly and are making their sentiments on the question felt.

Single Features.

The question of double bills has been a much-discussed issue both in Hollywood and in American homes for many years.

If the question were put to a referendum of all the people, single features would be the choice

DISCOMFORT OR DEFEAT?

The most hopeful word out of Washington in a long while was the report last Thursday of the Baruch committee on the rubber shortage. When men like Bernard M. Baruch, President Conant of Harvard, and President Compton of Massachusetts Tech make an investigation and report their findings, you know that you have the truth as far as it can be known without any coloring from politicians and bureaucrats. And here is what they said: "The naked facts preface a warning which the country dare not ignore. Our choice is discomfort or defeat." But the committee did not stop with the diagnosis. They prescribed:

1. A nation-wide rationing of gasoline.

2. A nation-wide speed limit of 35 miles per hour.

3. Reduction of average annual mileage per car to 5,000, with "less essential driving" cut far below that point.

4. Compulsory periodic tire inspection.

And so forth. And there was no suggestion of buck-passing between the President and the Congress. It was straight-talk of talk Americans like. One of the most hopeful intonations was the report that Secretary Ickes might be re-elected.

She is the only American entertainer here and is believed to be the only American woman ever to entertain soldiers right up at the front. The soldiers are singing her praises for conduct recent during a performance at Tel el Eisa Ridge—"Hill of Jesus."

Singing Under Shells.

She was doing a duet with Hugh Fennell, who has a post-war Hollywood contract—within three months of the German lines when the daily shelling began.

"One shell hit about 100 yards in front of us," she said. "Then another one hit behind us and then British shells screamed over our heads into the German lines. The soldiers instinctively looked for trenches and I didn't know what to do. I was scared to death but I didn't want to show it, so I started singing 'America I Love You.' Hugh said 'It's all right, lads. Sit down' and they did."

"They were wonderful. Shells kept coming for a while but the boys, mostly English and Australians, sat there and joined me in singing American and British patriotic songs and we finished the show."

Three Shows a Day.

"We do three shows a day at different places and we expect a bomb or shell now and then. It's upsetting, of course, but after a while you sort of get used to it, especially if they are not too close."

Traveling in regular British army desert trucks and performing on makeshift stages, often in dust storms, Miss Williams and her troupe work under the worst possible acting conditions. I watched them perform far out in the desert in the face of a driving wind and blinding skin-whipping sand and was thrilled by the all-British audience spontaneously joined Miss Williams in singing "America I Love You."

Her only complaint was on what the sandstorms do to the face and hair.

"It takes half the night to fix my hair and face for the next day," she said. "It's like combing barbed wire, but it's worth it if we can help and please these fighters. I am looking forward soon to playing before an all-American group."

Mercer Sees Largest Co-ed Enrollment

University at Macon To Register Students Today.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 13.—(P) Mercer University is expected to have its largest co-ed registration in history when the Baptist school opens tomorrow.

This is the indication, faculty members were told at a meeting at which the fall term's plans were discussed. Major J. D. Blair, registrar, reported that advance registration of out-of-town girls has increased 20 per cent.

Dr. Spright Dowell, university president, reported that the health and physical education department has been extended. Every student, unless excused for physical reasons, will be required to earn 18 hours of physical education credits instead of the usual six. Dr. Dowell said. These hours will not be substituted for academic requirements, which remain the same.

Dr. Dowell announced these additions to the faculty: Professor R. B. Plymale, former dean of Bessie Tift College; W. W. Smiley, librarian, from South Georgia Teachers' College, and Zebulon B. Vance, formerly at the University of North Carolina, as director of physical education.

Registration tomorrow is scheduled to be completed in one day.

A. C. White Moving Lines Adepts at Long-Distance, Local Hauling

Operates Big Fleet of Vans And Trailers

Serves Large Territory Over Much of the United States.

By PRESS HUDDLESTON.
With 14 years' experience in moving, crating and storage, the A. C. White Moving Lines, located at 590 Courtland street, N. E., is proving every day its popularity and its reputation for dependability.

For every day large vans and trailers of this well known concern can be seen, not only rolling over our city streets, but traversing the highways throughout the whole country.

Just now, with so many families of the military forces having to make changes in homesites and with the government moving the paraphernalia of large federal and military headquarters from place to place—and frequently from building to building—makes it busy times for the A. C. White Moving Lines. Many large contracts are executed by them in both short and long-distance hauling.

The concern, headed by A. C. White, in which the son is also a leading official, operates its long-distance hauling in all the Atlantic and seaboard states and throughout the Great Lakes region, and west to Texas.

A feature of its long-distance hauling that is making demands upon its services lies in the fact that it operates 22 large trailers and vans, and their daily travel over the highways to and through many cities, enables them to take on part loads, saving patrons the cost of the minimum charge of 5,000 pounds. Transporting part loads, as stated, is because the big fleet of vans and trailers are passing so often along their routes that the smaller load can be transported at actual tonnage cost. This is a splendid convenience and a big advantage and saving to those who need long-distance service on goods or packages that do not meet the schedule of full capacity loads.

The White Moving Lines not only maintain two large stations and a warehouse in Atlanta, but FEATURES LONG-DISTANCE HAULING—Above is shown a part of the large fleet of vans and trailers used by the A. C. White Moving Lines, located at 590 Courtland street, who are kept busy both in long-distance moving and short local hauls here in the city.

Vapo-Path Baths Term Open Doorway to Health

It must be admitted by everyone that we should guard health above all things. We must be constantly on the lookout for treacherous enemies of health. Pain or annoyances of any kind, long continued, rob the body of vitality, and low vitality saps the very foundation of the fortress of health. Aches and pains, no matter how trivial they are really a warning and should never be neglected. Such conditions do not tend to better themselves and sometimes develop into an acute or even into more serious conditions. Even conditions that never seem to give more than occasional annoyances are treacherous, for they just as truly as diseased teeth or tonsils may be the source of infection. They can cause nervous disease, palpitation of the heart, arthritis and a host of other associated diseases. We earnestly urge that you assist us by taking Mineral Fume Baths. The wonderful mineral fume baths are not weakening, but rather invigorating.

In addition to its long-distance headquarters on Courtland street, the concern maintains at 410-14-16 Edgewood avenue a retail furniture store, where is sold both new and used furniture. Many real values are offered, from time to time of household goods that have been stored for some time when the owner finally decides to move or for the storage which the concern provides.

If long-distance moving is desired, or if it is only a local move here in the city, the A. C. White Moving Lines will be glad to serve you. Telephone the office, Vernon 9602, for long-distance service, or Main 1888 for local moving and storage.

Fighting Men Rush Offers To Plant Kiss on Pretty Model

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Soldiers, sailors and fast-working Marines, eager to arrange for a kiss, have convinced Model Marilyn Sable that the American fighting man hasn't lost his romantic spark.

Two weeks ago Miss Sable, slim and lovely but unklassed on many dates at service dances, said she would like to know what was holding back the American doughboy.

An avalanche of answers poured in through the mail from sergeants, corporals, ensigns, lieutenants, second-class seamen—and even several hopeful civilians.

Tired but willing, a lieutenant wrote from maneuvers in Louisiana: "We do have gentlemen in the Army of 1942, and according to etiquette I don't think a young lady of 18 is allowed to kiss on her first date with a strange boy. But I would like your address. I feel sure that arrangements can be made to give you a kiss."

Said a seaman in San Francisco, in a letter stamped "passed by Naval censor":

"I would like to get in touch with a lady like you."

Petitioning for her address, a civilian in Hopkinsville, Ky., said simply: "It might be a turning point in my life."

A private sent his picture from Seattle, Wash., with a cartoon bearing the caption: "We can take 'em" and a letter declaring: "I am an honest American soldier and still believe in chivalry. I am asking for an introduction."

Another civilian explained he had been turned down by the Army for physical reasons but that if he had been a soldier he wouldn't have let any opportunities slip by.

"Here's hoping someone kisses you soon," he said. "It's a wonderful feeling."

Bright-eyed Miss Sable, who comes from Wichita, Kan., has changed her mind.

"I believe now that plenty of boys are romantic," she said today, smiling happily. "They are just shy. They are really gentlemen."

Seek Indictment Of Florida Slayer

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 13.—(AP)—State Attorney G. A. Worley said today he would seek an early grand jury indictment for Vincent Christy, confessed killer of four Miamians.

Christy admitted last night, reported State Investigator I. R. Mills, that he purposely slew Irving Leopold "to settle an old score," accidentally killed Leopold's stepson, Stephen, 6, as the child clung to his stepfather's knee, and then directed bullets into the body of Mrs. Leopold because she screamed and "since I had killed the others I might as well kill her, too."

A short time later, Christy's confession said, he shot young Ralph J. Morris Jr. to death because the youth fought back when he attempted to take his car.

Dempsey Conceded New Mexico Post

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 13.—(AP)—John J. Dempsey, who resigned as Undersecretary of Interior to seek the governorship, rolled up a heavy majority in New Mexico's Democratic primary and tonight received the congratulations of his opponent, Bryan C. Johnson, of Albuquerque.

Returns from 693 of the 915 precincts gave Dempsey 32,776 and Johnson 22,158.

Democrats gave a landslide endorsement of Senator Carl A. Hatch, New Mexico's senior senator, and Representative Clinton P. Anderson in their successful quest for renomination.

Oscar M. White, 61, Dies; Rites Today

Oscar M. White, 61, of 884 Neal street, N. W., died yesterday at the Atlanta place, 22 Cain street, and at her Decatur branch.

NEW DECATUR BRANCH—Above is shown the entrance to the Decatur branch of the Georgia Re-weaving and Tailoring Company, at 126 Atlanta avenue, in Decatur. Mrs. Sara Bentley-McKinley supervises the high-grade re-weaving and tailoring work done both at her Atlanta place, 22 Cain street, and at her Decatur branch.

Georgia Re-weaving Company Has Active Decatur Branch

Mrs. McKinley Supervises Work at Both Her Places.

The Georgia Re-weaving and Tailoring Company is co-operating in a fine way with the rationing of tires and gas these days, in that the good folks in and around Decatur do not have to draw on these scarce commodities to drive to Atlanta to have their garments mended and made to look practically as good as new.

Some time ago Mrs. Sara Bentley-McKinley, head of the popular re-weaving company, located for long time at 22 Cain street, back of the Henry Grady hotel, and still there, saw the necessity of opening a branch office and workshop in Decatur.

Since that was done the Decatur branch has built up a large list of patrons who appreciate the splendid work Miss Ethel Stevens, in charge of the place, and her force is doing for the people of that entire section.

This new branch has a most attractive and convenient location at 126 Atlanta avenue, just off the courthouse square. Mrs. McKinley carefully supervises the repair and tailoring work, both in the Atlanta place and the new Decatur and assures the public the same A No. 1 work is guaranteed at both places.

The Georgia Re-weaving and Tailoring Company has built a splendid reputation for the excellent re-weaving work it turns out. Thirty men and women find satisfaction in the handicraft of needlework done by these girls at both places, as they have raised this fine art in re-weaving so you can't tell where the damage was done.

Sights of relief and smiles of pleasure have come from working wives and bachelors, who are too busy to bother with holes in suits, overcoats and dresses and frayed shirt collars since they have heard of the artistry of the Georgia Re-weavers.

Examined under a magnifying glass, the material is matched exactly, and the threads are woven in one by one, even matching the most intricate plaid, check or any other pattern.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Howard L. Carmichael.

Stop Dragging Feet, Nelson Tells Workers

'Times Are Tougher; So Are We,' Production Chief Says.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 13.—(INS) — Donald Nelson tonight urged the workers who have been "dragging their feet" in the parade of production to march faster and build up America's war output.

In a speech at the RCA-Victor plant, broadcasting over a nationwide radio hookup, the war production chief urged that all war workers participate in the campaign to increase production of tools of war.

"There are tough times ahead of us," he said. "We have taken up the slack in our wasteful economy and from here on it is going to hurt."

"Our normal production machinery will not meet abnormal war demands. But we cannot and will not cut our wartime demands to the level of our normal production machinery. We have built much civilian production. We have now arrived at what I think of as the balancing period."

"We have to go over our parts on hand to see what is lacking, what is surplus for the time being. To get balance we will cut down further on materials for civilian use, and when we must, we will even cut materials for our war use to fill a more pressing and immediate war need."

"It will be harder to increase production now than it was six months ago. There are more physical difficulties to be overcome. Times are tougher. So are we; all of us. We will not be stopped."

Waitresses Older, Food Better, Daniel Hicky, Restaurateur Finds After Tour

The war is making the 45-year-old waitress quite popular with restaurant operators throughout the country, Robert J. Wilson, of Washington, secretary of the National Restaurant Association, said yesterday upon his arrival here to confer with members of the Atlanta Association of Better Restaurants.

"Restaurant operators used to think they could not have a waitress unless she was young and pretty, but they have learned differently," Wilson said.

The older waitresses are proving far more efficient and capable. She has her mind on her work; while the younger waitress was probably thinking about getting married or that date she would have as soon as she got off duty." Many Washington restaurants are already observing meatless days, Wilson said, simply because they were unable to purchase meats. The general public, he

Atlanta Poet, Enters Army

The war is making the changed conditions without complaint because the restaurant operators are concentrating on shorter menus and better prepared foods.

"The time is coming when a restaurant menu will consist of a sandwich, or possibly two meats, a salad, and your choice of one or two vegetables, grown nearby," Wilson said. "The shopping problem is making the restaurant operator look more and more for home-grown products to be served in his restaurant."

Wilson will meet with members of the Atlanta Association of Better Restaurants this afternoon at the Frances Virginia tearoom for the purpose of discussing the problems now confronting the restaurant operators. All restaurant operators in Atlanta are invited.

Wilson is now completing a tour of the south and the restaurant operation during wartime, and declared that the restaurants, although handicapped by a help shortage and food rationing, are serving better meals than ever before.

Go On Hunger Strike

BOMBAY, Sept. 13.—(AP)—One hundred and twenty-nine orphans are on a hunger strike at the Lady Northcote Hindu orphanage, protesting against what the demonstrators charged with maladministration of the institution by the Hindu government.

The children, in emulation of a familiar tactic of Mohandas K. Gandhi although their movement apparently had no political motivation, refused their first meals yesterday.

A Touch of Jealousy May Be Best Cure For Man's Wandering

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:
My mind is going around in circles and I cannot decide what to do. I am 33 years old and my husband is five years older. We have three children, the youngest being three. We have been married for 16 years and for 15 of these years we lived a happy, normal life. Our friends said that we were the ideal couple and I always thought we were well matched and happy.

About a year ago my husband began to get restless and irritable and stay out late at nights. I have always let him go as he pleased and never questioned him as to where he was or what he was doing, for I loved and trusted him.

But now as you must have guessed there is another woman in the picture. I am positive of this. He has given her several gifts and has spent quite a bit of money on her. I believe he really thinks he is in love with both of us or perhaps he tries to keep me contented at home for the child's sake or because he feels it is his duty. I do not know the woman's personality but I believe she is nice and I know that she works. I have not told my husband that I know this positively, although before I knew who she was I have asked him why he did not stay home more and why we could not be like we once were and he would kiss me and say he loved me and maybe he would come in early the next night and then go right on his old way. This is breaking my heart and I do not know what to do. I have no place to go with three children. I believe he would provide for us as he has always done, but this isn't what I want. Must I go out to work and dress up and fight this woman in that way? Or must I continue to stay home and be the dull, shabby little wife taking the crumbs her husband offers?

I seem I cannot go on sharing him any longer, or will go crazy. Please tell me what to do. He gives me a fair portion of his money and I pay all the household bills. He does not worry about his bills any more. He has completely lost interest in his home. With the drafting of married men looming in the future, I hate to think of him leaving with our lives like they are. What must I do?

WORRIED WIFE.

So far you are using the wrong technique with your husband. He knows that you are worried and he knows that you are suspecting that he is up to something. And he is like a small boy who is deriving great delight in being a bit bad and acting devilish and getting away with it. He thinks he is putting something over on you, and he is reveling in his newfound charm and attraction. The other woman is feeding him flattery with a spoon and he is fattening on it and his ego is expanding with every spoonful.

You will have to look at the situation and calmly and with cool calculation. It is his first mis-

Cream to Prevent Wrinkles Around Eyes

By Winifred Ware.

The thin, delicate skin around the eyes needs special care because this area usually is the very first to wrinkle. Eyestrain and squinting, and too much sun all make their contribution to the ugly lines that radiate from the eyes, but very often this area is merely neglected because a woman thinks her face cream should not be applied too near the eyes. It's true that creams which are applied directly over and around the eyes should be made especially for that purpose. They should be rich and lubricating, yet should contain no substances that would irritate or harm in any way this delicate and priceless organ.

I have in mind today an eye cream for those of you who have been asking recently, "What can I do about the wrinkles that are coming around my eyes?" The eye cream I have in mind is made by one of the cosmeticians usually thought of as "exclusive," yet the cost of a jar that will last many months is only $2.00. It is very rich, and delicately scented. A bit of this cream should be applied over the whole eye, including the lid and gently patted with the tips of the fingers, with particular attention to the thin skin immediately below the eye. There should be no rubbing, only gentle patting of this skin beneath the eye, and it is well to do the patting with the eye open and looking upward.

An application of this cream each night, the residue after patting, left on overnight will ward off wrinkles rather indefinitely and will improve the skin that already shows signs of wrinkling. A tiny bit of this cream may be worn in daytime to give the eye a "moist" look and to keep this skin lubricated even during the day.

For the name of this eye cream and where it can be bought phone Winifred Ware, WA 6565, or write in care of The Constitution, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Don Thompson, feature editor of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, is in town with his family for their annual beach vacation. His presence revives one of Hollywood's prize stories.

During a 1932 visit, Thompson was urged by his old friend Gabe York, executive for William Fox, to come out to the then-new motion picture city lot for lunch. Not particularly interested in picture-making Thompson arrived at the Santa Monica gate and announced his presence. Meanwhile, York, called into urgent conference with Fox, had neglected to make necessary arrangements for his guest's arrival.

Thompson was sent to three different gates at far corners of the lot. At each he was given a stiff third degree by the studio police. They regarded him as a rambunctious and said so. Hot, dusty and disgusted, Thompson finally walked a mile to a telephone and asked his wife to come pick him up. Waiting for her to drive along, he sought some shade by the curb. As he stood mopping his brow under a big papaya tree, a studio cop dashed up, tapped him on the shoulder and said:

The Sun Is My Undoing Is Shelved for the Duration

By Harold Heffner.

Any faint hopes entertained for early production of "The Sun Is My Undoing," prize story on MGM's shelf, were dissipated this week when studio executives officially suspended it for the duration. "We've read and re-read the story," said one, "and the more we do so the greater is our conviction that only Clark Gable could play the leading male role. He seems to fit into that Matthew Flood part just as he did into Rhett Butler and 'Gone With the Wind.' We feel readers and fans generally would stand for no substitute . . . In time to come, Johnny Meyer, erstwhile companion of Errol Flynn, will be given full credit for the merger of Howard Hughes and Henry Kaiser. It was Meyer's idea, Hughes turned it down at first and acceded only after Johnny kept after him for months . . . Lionel Barrymore's doctor says "No" to suggestions that he go out on a bond-selling tour. However, Lionel says "Yes" and it looks like the elder Barrymore, wheel-chair and all, will do it in October.

Sonja Henie's newest deal to comply and cope with the war's necessary restrictions will see her recruiting her next male skating chorus from high schools and colleges of Southern California. For "Quota Girl," she will seek suitable skaters from students under military age. They will be trained at her expense and guaranteed eight weeks' work. Sonja lost 22 of the 40 male skaters who appeared with her in "Iceland."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

It is the War.

We regret to announce that it is no longer possible to refer correspondents to specialists or to physicians skilled in this or that field. The lists built up through careful and laborious investigation in the course of several years have been disrupted by a large number of the doctors leaving practice to enter military service. So, for the duration, Dr. Brady cannot give readers names of physicians or specialists—best source of information is your own family doctor or any reputable doctor you know, or the county medical society is listed in the local telephone directory.

To Much Water.

Have heard of persons dying from drinking too much water. Recently some one told of a patient dying because his inner organs actually floated from too much water. (Miss M. H.)

Answers—it doesn't happen. Does a person rise and float away from breathing too much air? Only conceivable circumstance in which harm may be done by drinking too much water is the so-called "water cure"—forcing a prisoner to swallow enormous quantities for any one to lose in a week, of water.

Day-by-Day Exercise Routine Helps Woman Discard Girdle

By Ida Jean Kain.

This is another of a series of articles by Ida Jean Kain in which she describes a physical fitness program for women during wartime. Today: the muscular girdle and the importance of keeping it in condition.

The middle-age spread has nothing to do with age. You can get it at 20, or skip it at 50. What makes the difference is the condition of your muscular girdle.

You ought to know about this girdle. Nature designed it and it has a three-way control. To balance each other and give you the best possible support, the muscles run in different directions.

There are long, narrow muscles running the full length of the midsection from wishbone to pelvis. Then, a set of broad muscles come in on the bias. And for good measure, underneath are layers of other muscles.

This network of muscles forms the abdominal wall, and from the standpoint of fitness as well as your figure it is most important to keep them in good tone. Otherwise they take on fat and spread like the strands of a mesh shopping bag.

You need to exercise to keep these supporting muscles on their job of holding the abdominal organs in place. In fact, this is the one type of exercise that no woman can get along without. If you are reducing your weight, you must strengthen these muscles to prevent sagging of the organs as weight is removed. Or, if you are trying to gain you must exercise to prevent too much pounds from settling about the midriff. You tall, thin girls particularly need exercise to keep the muscular girdle in tone.

Just a few exercises, taken every day, will strengthen all the sets of muscles that make up your girdle and will give you a nice firm feeling through the midsection. The two most effective positions for this kind of exercise are: Lying on your back on the floor with knees flexed and feet on the floor. And lying on back on floor with feet elevated on chair seat or low bench to counteract gravity.

From the first position, simply pull up and in with the lower abdominal muscles and press the small of the back down against the floor. Hold, relax. Repeat 10 times. This also helps to overcome any possible strain.

From the same position, keep the knees flexed and raise alternate thighs to chest. While doing this, keep one foot on floor to prevent any possible strain.

As a third exercise from that position, raise alternate legs straight up in air, knee straight, to right angle with trunk. Again, as you swing one leg up, keep the other foot on the floor.

Sixteen-Year-Old Bridge Club To Meet at Sheffield Farms

• • • ONE DAY BACK in 1926 a group of girls decided to form a bridge group to meet every week "forever and ever." The club had no name, and no rules. Throughout the 16 years that have passed, the club members have held their weekly meetings without a break in membership. However, when Mrs. Rufus G. Thayer, the former Anna Harriett Shewmake, married into the Navy, she moved around the country to various Navy posts, and although she was unable to attend meetings, the club members insisted that she retain her membership and join them during her infrequent visits home.

Anna Thayer is here now, you know, while Commander Thayer is on duty in the Pacific on Admiral William Calhoun's staff, and she has been a regular attendant at the meetings. This week Evelyn Sheffield (Mrs. Alfred Thompson) is playing hostess to the club and has planned the meeting as a spend-the-day party on Wednesday at Sheffield Farms, the large farm near Dallas, Ga., owned by her father, J. M. Sheffield. The club members are going up early Wednesday in two station wagons for the day.

The club members, in addition to Evelyn and Anna, are Juliette Crenshaw (Mrs. Charles) Winship, Phoebe Ellis (Mrs. Stuart) Gould, Margaret Ransom (Mrs. I. M. Jr.) Sheffield, Fay Hammond (Mrs. George) Sheffield, Bessie Mitchell (Mrs. H. C. Jr.) Moore, LaTrelle Smaw (Mrs. A. B.) Greene, Sara Hanahan (Mrs. Edward) Merritt and Sue Brown Stern.

Mrs. Medora Field Perkerson and Miss Marguerite Steedman will be honored at a tea at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Dr. Wender Weds At Texas Rites

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 13.—A former Atlantan, Dr. Simon Harold Wender, now of Louisville, Ky., was married here September 5, to Miss Ruth Miriam Wisenberg, the ceremony taking place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Louis Wisenberg.

Mr. Wender and his bride are spending their honeymoon in Tennessee. Upon their return they will reside at 251 Third avenue in Decatur.

Mrs. Wender graduated from Russell High school, attended Agnes Scott College and Draughon School of Commerce. She is a member of the National Honor Society and the Quill and Scroll Club.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father, John Herman Cordes Sr., with whom she entered the chapel. She wore a sateen dress of blue velvetone two-piece, draped in the neckline and sleeves being trimmed with lace.

White gladioli, tuberoses and white roses and seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers flanked the altar.

Cecil McGarity, of Jersey, Ga., was best man for the bridegroom. John H. Cordes Jr. and Harry N. Cordes were ushers. Miss Virginia Drake, the maid of honor, was gowned in rose-colored crepe. She wore brown accessories and a cluster of talisman roses on her shoulder.

Included in Mr. Hill's exhibit of eight pictures are also scenes done later during the summer in the Great Smoky Mountains, at Cade's Cove. "To my mind the Great Smokies are better for painting than for fishing," Mr. Hill explained.

The idea for the Water Color Exhibit, which will be opened to the public on Wednesday, really originated down at the beach home of the Herbert Oliver family this summer. They entertained a house party which included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Shute, Mr. Hill, Robert A. Lyons, from Buffalo, and Lorraine, and others. "We had a regular painting jamboree," said Mr. Hill, "or, as the musicians would say, a 'jam session.' We painted from morning till night and had so much fun we decided it would be a good idea to have a late summer exhibit, using only material done during this summer."

Politico 'Rationing' Sports in short or, in short, sports: W. H. McNAUGHTON, president of the Georgia Wildlife Federation, wires—"Your untiring efforts in behalf of conservation are appreciated.... At last the sportsmen have the chance of a lifetime to bring back game and fish.... Thanks for all your hard work." From Gainesville comes the following communication from Dr. Clabus LLOYD, who has waged an untiring fight for better wildlife in Georgia: "I thank you for furnishing the 'crow' for TALMADGE'S and CRAVEY'S supper.... I'm quite sure that they will both enjoy it, as it is their favorite meat." Before Georgia voters rationed the candidate from Sugar Creek, he had charged the Georgia Wildlife Federation with having an ax to grind.... Sure they did.... As men who buy licenses and pay taxes they wanted something in return for their money.... A fish now and then and a few birds in season.... They also wanted to drive along the highways, a quail tag on their license plates, and be safe from the State Patrol, whose instructions were to pick up Federation members on the slightest pretext.... This corner will never forget the timeliest arrest of all time.... It was an auto trip to Florida for a Georgia-Florida football game.... Precisely in front of the mansion outside of McRae, patrolmen had a motorist surrounded and were dishing out tickets with a flourish.... I'll never forget that they trailed my car, bearing a wildlife quail tag, for more than 10 miles. But it was love's labor lost for them.... Federal game wardens are highly concerned over the reports of widespread dove shooting out of season.... Once Georgia had merit system rangers who reduced violations to a minimum.... Today's lot simply is a group of chagrined politicians.

Usual Standard Always noted for good ends and centers, Georgia Tech's varsity of '42 is no exception.... A pair of Jacks, MARSHALL and HELMS, are splendid wingmen, and Mutt MANNING, pivotman, is a power on defense.... Few centers are better against passes. Just keep an eye on Clint CASTLEBERRY.... He probably has more poise than any freshman Tech has had in Coach ALEX'S experience, and the boy's growing, too.... He now weighs 160 pounds;.... Clint's old Boys' High sidekick and roommate, Don PASCHAL, is working up from the Green Shirts and performing to advantage. In the past Auburn teams have started slowly and scored moderately in the early games.... It will be interesting to see what effect a summer's work will have had on the team.... The opener with Chattanooga Friday night at Montgomery is a fair test because reports have it that Scrappy MOORE'S Moccasins are tough.... Heretofore it has been a matter of timing and co-ordination with Auburn in the early games.... The T formation is not easy to master. Auburn's going to lose a great coach for the duration when the little Marine, Jack MEAGHER, goes back into the service after the season.

Handsome Gift Obby BREWER, Red Cross chairman, was grinning like the cat that had swallowed the canary over receiving a check from Earl MANN, Cracker president, for $2,050.68, proceeds of Crackers' annual game for the Red Cross.... It's probably a natural thing with a loser, but many critics charge Paul RICHARDS didn't get the most out of the team in his fifth year as manager.... Supporters, on the other hand, insist he did a brilliant job with fair talent.... In outscoring Little Rock and finishing third in allowing opponents runs, not to mention topping the pennant winners in runs batted in, the Crackers appeared better than a fifth-place team.... The figures refuted all charges that they had no punch. Georgia goes behind locked gates this week at Athens.... Reason is that the Bulldogs will go all-out for the opener with Kentucky next Saturday at Louisville.... It all dates back to an old high school rivalry between Wally BUTTS and Ab KIRWIN.... No punches, so to speak, will be pulled.... Cecil TRAVIS' marriage to the former Helen HUBBARD, an event of Saturday, was a surprise to a lot of folks who didn't even know the former Washington baseball star had a "girl".... Travis is stationed at Camp Wheeler. Got to hand it to Colonel Bob NEYLAND.... When he puts a football team on the field, it's for keeps.... After the war he'll develop a winner for the Rose Bowl, or else.... That is, back at Tennessee.... Meanwhile, John BARNHILL is doing very well.... The word's out to watch the Vols this season.... They were brilliant at season's end.

Triple A Nips Red Oak, 12-8, In 1st Round

East Point and Triple A moved into the second round play in the third annual Sunday Amateur Baseball Tournament got under way yesterday afternoon.

The Pointers scored over Dr. Lewis Ray's battling Log Cabin by a 3-to-1 count when Smithy Smithwick bested the brilliant Buck Matthews in dinging-pitching battle. East Point got its trio of markers in the sixth when Jennings singled, Atkins tripled and Thompson and Smithwick worked through with one-base errors. Prior to this outbreak East Point had registered but two safeties off Matthews.

Triple A pulled something of an upset in downing Thomas Collins' Red Oak sluggers, 12 to 8. The steady pitching in the clutch by B. J. Baxter and three double plays by the Triple A infield were the chief factors in the Trucker triumph. The feature of the game, however, was a triple play by Red Oak.

The winning attack was led by L. Sansone and Tom Fraizer, with four hits in five tries each. Sloan and Hairston were the heavy knockers for Red Oak.

Durocher Fined, Dresen Banned

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(P)—As if the Dodgers' five-game losing streak and loss of the National League lead weren't enough, Brooklyn Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers was fined $100 today and was told bluntly by League President Fredrick that if the pennant chase were not so close he'd have been suspended.

Durocher's penalty and a $50 fine and five-day suspension for Coach Chuck Dressen for a rowdy argument with an umpire at Barlick when Mickey Owen was called out on a close play at first base in the seventh inning of Saturday's game between the Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals.

Don Floyd Wins Red Cross Meet

Donald Floyd, recent winner of the state tennis championship at Griffin, added another crown to his steadily growing list yesterday afternoon at the Northside Tennis Club when he trounced Jack Teele, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6, in the finals of the Red Cross tournament.

In the women's division, Marjorie Waite, the transplanted California lass, proved again that she is head and shoulders above the local feminine players by whipping Louise Fowler of Covington, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, Miss Waite is also the Georgia state women's singles champion.

Cards Split, Take Lead as Dodgers Drop Pair

Bill Beckman Relieves Krist, Wins 2d Game

Bobo Newsom, Curt Davis Drop 4th, 5th in Row for Brooklyn.

By JUDSON BAILEY.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals came within a hair's breadth of a double header against the poor Phils today and failed. But even though they had to be content with winning one out of the two the Red Birds roared into exclusive possession of first place in the National League by a full game. A crowd of 20,798 attended.

The Cards were over-anxious in the opening tussle, and gave the Phils two runs in the ninth inning to lose, 2 to 1, but they came back like champions in the second game and won, 3 to 2, to profit by the Brooklyn Dodgers' double loss against the Cincinnati Reds.

John Beale, the Red Birds' great rookie who had won 19 games and ardently hoped for his 20th, pitched eight shutout innings and his teammates gave him a run in the fifth by capitalizing on one of the three hits they made off Tommy Hughes.

But when victory came close the Cards grabbed too violently. With one out in the ninth inning Danny Litwhiler raised a short fly near the right-field foul line and three Red Birds flew to take it. Second-baseman Jimmy Brown elected himself for the honor and fell down after getting his hands on the ball. The result was a double.

The nightcap began as another tight duel between Howard Krist, of the Cards, and Rube Melton, of the Phils, but its complexion was changed in the fourth when both teams scored twice, even though it continued close.

In the St. Louis half of the fourth Enos Slaughter walked, Stan Musial tripped and Johnny Hopp doubled. However, the Phils retaliated with four successive singles by Litwhiler, Etten, Burich and Murtaugh to tie the score and dispatch Krist.

This proved a mistake, for ex-Atlanta pitcher Bill Beckman, formerly an unsuccessful hurler for the Philadelphia Athletics, shut out the rest of the way and Captain Terry Moore banged his sixth home run into the left field stands in the fifth inning to decide the game.

I have received many shrill and querulous letters from the ladies about my article on slacks.

They object to the statement, "A fat lady wearing slacks gives a man his second guess first."

Anyway, ladies, pan me all you want but keep on writing. I'm just beginning to realize that my nuisance value requires an acid transfusion.

Red Heroes Die As Human Bombs Blast Nazi Tanks

MOSCOW, Sept. 13.—(AP)—An epic story of the heroism of Russian soldiers who filled their pockets with hand grenades and threw themselves under German tanks rolling toward Stalingrad stirred the capital today.

Sixteen men, of whom 15 are dead and one is dying by acts of sacrifice held up an onslaught of 12 German tanks and drove two platoons of Italian infantry and a unit of German automatic riflemen to cover, the Sunday papers reported.

The 16 men, it was reported, held a vital sector northwest of Stalingrad and repulsed a determined enemy attack from that direction.

First they beat off Italian infantry which stormed the top of a hill.

The Italians were replaced by German automatic riflemen who were subjected to a concentrated fire. The riflemen came almost to the Russian positions and were stopped at last by a bayonet charge.

Darkness brought a lull in operations, but at dawn 12 German tanks rolled into the field to charge the stronghold. The little Russian force had no anti-tank weapons, but the men decided to do their utmost with hand grenades and vowed not to be taken alive.

Hand grenades tossed in the orthodox manner blew up four of the tanks. But the rest came on. The last three Russians remaining uninjured then tucked hand grenades under their belts, stuffed others into their pockets and holding as many as possible in their hands they threw themselves under the caterpillars of two more tanks.

Men and machines were blown to bits. The remaining tanks withdrew and before they could resume the attack Russian reinforcements arrived.

The story was told by the commander of the little band of Russian defenders, Lieutenant Korchetkov. The Russian reports said he is wounded mortally.

Only 35 years old, Dr. Middleton was born in Woodland, Miss. He was graduated from Mississippi State College with an A. B. degree in 1931. He then attended the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary where he received his Th. M. degree in 1935.

He was called to the First Baptist church in Trenton, Miss., in 1936. He went to San Angelo on April 1, 1941. The church had a membership of 2,400 and during the first 12 months after Dr. Middleton's arrival 411 members were added, 107 converts and 304 new members.

Last spring he was offered the position as head of the evangelistic department of the Southern Baptist convention, succeeding Dr. Roland Q. Leavell, who resigned to accept the pastorate of the First Baptist church in Tampa, Fla., but he declined the invitation. He gave as his reason for the refusal that his definite call was "ministerial and not promotional."

Duels by Artillery Only Desert Action

CAIRO, Sept. 13.—(AP)—British troops penetrated more deeply into Madagascar today, every dispatch from the French island southeast of Africa indicating that the occupation was being carried out systematically and with little opposition.

The British said they were attempting to inflict as little punishment as possible on French troops standing in the way of marches on the capital, Tananarive, from the north and south.

"We are getting on," said a military commentator. "But it must be remembered that one of our objects in the operations is not to cause French casualties."

Today's communiqué said merely that "the advance on the capital continues."

The phrase was interpreted to mean that the occupation troops are closer than 71 miles, the distance announced by yesterday's communiqué.

A central column encountered an obstacle at the Betsiboka river on the road to Tananarive, where a section of a suspension bridge had been lowered into the water. French troops there made a gesture of opposition. British reports said 47 French prisoners were taken, a few of the defenders wounded, and that four British were wounded. The river was crossed early yesterday.

The fighting at the river was reported by the Vichy radio, but French reports that British losses were high were considered baseless in authoritative quarters here.

An official report from Nairobi, Kenya Colony, said that no French artillery fired in the course of the British landing at Majunga Thursday. British 15 and six-inch naval guns were at hand, but it was not necessary to bring them into action.

The Bulgarian government is one of the Balkan partners of the Axis. Russians were said to be providing the forces of the uprising with ammunition and food, dropped by parachute.

130 Internees at Manila Moved to Shanghai

TOKYO (from Japanese broadcasts), Sept. 13.—(AP)—A Domesi dispatch from Manila said today that about 130 American and British internees, including four United States newspapermen, were moved to Shanghai recently from the Santo Tomas University internment camp in the Philippine capital.

The news agency identified the four newspapermen as Russell Brines, former member of the Associated Press bureaus in Tokyo and Manila; Ben Covit, of the United Press; Carl Mydans, of Life Magazine, and Royal A. Gunnison, of the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Domei did not name the others.
